ASCV Scholarship Program

The ASCV offers three types of scholarships to give individuals with autism and their families opportunities to participate in recreational, social, and educational activities. As many families face heavy financial burdens, the added cost of these types of activities often is not feasible. The ASCV developed its scholarship program recognizing the overwhelming need for help with funding social, recreational, and educational activities in the autism community.

1. Our Recreational and Social Scholarship Program provides funds for individuals with autism to attend activities and programs including camps, social skills groups, recreation leagues, swim lessons, dance lessons, gymnastics, and more.

2. Our Education Enrichment Scholarship provides funds for families, caregivers, and individuals with autism to attend conferences, workshops, and webinars to gain information and access to resources related to autism, network with other individuals and professionals, and acquire skills necessary to best support themselves and/or their loved one with autism.

3. Our Membership Scholarship Program provides individuals and families with an annual ASCV membership giving them the opportunity to participate in the ASCV's member programs and events.

"Receiving the scholarship for my daughter was greatly appreciated. She truly enjoyed the dance classes. I believe the opportunity gave her more confidence and also allowed for socialization among peers her age. Thank you for the scholarship!"

"These summer camps with his peers wouldn't be possible without the ASCV! This enriches his summers, and keeps him active and socialized. The ASCV makes this a financial possibility!
